

I believe that because I live in the greatest country in the world, my freedoms shall not be revoked without just cause. I am against forcing companies to give the use of their systems to the government at no cost. I believe that if the government wants to listen in on on telephone calls, or monitor my information, that it should be difficult and time consuming, and that will discourage law enforcement agencies from abusing these powers.